History of the Montgomery Greys

Original Organization

The Montgomery Greys entered the Confederate Service in May 1861. Sam G. Hardaway, Captain, and was one of the twelve companies that composed the 6th Infantry Regiment, Alabama Volunteers, as shown by copies of letters herein, and other evidences now in possession of the present company, one of which is the "old Flag" bearing the name of the "Montgomery Greys" painted in gold letters through the centre, and was presented to the company upon the eve of their departure for the Army of Northern Virginia. This flag was brought home from Virginia by Corporal Mike Duffie, and after the re-organization of the company, during the term of Captain John Gano Winter, it was delivered to the present company.

Other records show that during the War of Secession the company was engaged in a large number of skirmishes, and the following great Battles:

Manassas,	Chancellorsville,
Williamsburg,	Berryville,
Seven Pines,	Gettysburg,
Chicahominy,	Mine Run May 6th,

The Company first enlisted for "twelve months" at the end of which time, in 1862, they re-enlisted "for three years or during the war"

At the time of re-enlistment the following men joined Waddells Battery, ——— Clinton, Frank M. Jones, Mulder W. Lord, Marion McDuffie, Milton Porter, Richard Rathwell, and Thomas Rusk.

The survivors of the original organization, so far as it has been able to ascertain, and who are living at this date, January 15th, 1908, are Philip E. Maher, Frank M. Jones, T. W. Booth, George Green, Mulder W. Lord, Seth D. Conner, John D. Maxwell, and Richard Rathwell.

The following interesting extracts throw light on the early history of the Company and regiment, and are given in full:

MONTGOMERY GREYS. —CAPT. HARDAWAY.—This able and efficient Company turned out yesterday, for the purpose of receiving a magnificent banner, presented them as a token of the high appreciation in which they are held by our citizens. The presentation speech was made by Judge Phelan and responded to by our talented young townsman, Lieut. George Goldthwaite. We regret we did not have an opportunity of witnessing the interesting ceremonies.

COL. SEIBEL'S REGIMENT.—This is perhaps one of the finest Regiments that has yet been mustered into service in our State, and as a commanding officer, Col. Seibels has few equals. We are not yet apprized of the time when this Regiment will leave, nor positively of their place of destination; we understand, however, that the understanding now is, that they will go to Uniontown, Tennessee. For the benefit of those who may wish to witness a splendid Military display, we will state that a Battalion drill takes place at the Race Track, every afternoon at 6 o'clock.

The extracts are from The Daily Post, Montgomery, Alabama, Tuesday, May 21, 1861, the original files of which are preserved in the collections of the Department of Archives and History at the State Capitol.

As further illustrating the early history of the Company a copy of a letter received from Philip E. Maher, the Lieut. in command at the surrender is given:

New York, March 10th, 1890.

Capt. M. H. Amerine,

Dear Friend:—

That the name of Capt. Sam. Hardaway's Company, the 6th Ala. Reg., is in doubt by any citizen of Montgomery is one of the surprizes of my life. It is painful to think, that there is a man in your city, that knows so little of us as not to know our name. For their benefit, I will state a few facts. I became a member of Capt. Hardaway's Company in May, 1861, and its name was then, the Montgomery Greys, and continued so to the end of the war. We received a flag bearing our name through its centre, presented to us by the Ladies of Montgomery before we left home. It was borne by our color sergeant until the State Flag was intrusted to his care. The same gallant member of the Montgomery Greys met his death carrying the Confederate Battle flag of the 6th Ala. Regiment. Our twelve companies brought to the regiment their local names, and they were known by them to the end. Capt. Hardaway was never known to call his company by its regimental letter. He called us the Greys, when he tried to be severe: The present company of young gentlemen, the prize winners of our country, the young soldiers perpetuating our name, need not blush or apologize for the record of the old company. Its history is the history of the 6th Ala. Regiment, with General Jackson, Ewell, Rhodes, Early, and our General Gordon. From Manassas to Appomattox the Montgomery Greys well sustained on many a bloody field the cause and honor of the South. I am proud to think that the young Montgomery Greys, whom I met in April 1886 at the laying of the cornerstone of a monument to commemorate the gallant sons of Alabama, felt it their duty to see that the Veterans of the Old Greys, still retain the name and standing they are by every right entitled to. It is natural that I should be proud of them, as I held every position in the Montgomery Greys of '61 from Corporal to Lieutenant, and was its only commissioned officer during the memorable period, from the battle of Gettysburg to the Surrender at Appomattox. In the name of the patriotism shown by all the confederate soldiers of Montgomery, let there be no one at the Present day degenerate enough to refuse their memory the simple justice of honored recognition. They did their duty as soldiers, and as they have nearly all passed away, their successors should be encouraged to keep up their name and glorious record.

Your friend,

(Signed) PHILIP E. MAHER.

The original letter was published a few days after it was received, and a copy framed and placed in the Montgomery Greys company quarters. Another copy was kept by Capt. Paul Sanguinetti, and is in his possession.

Another interesting letter, received from Richard Rathwell, who was an early member of the company, is also given:

Bluff Springs, Fla., Sept. 22nd, 1907.

Capt. M. H. Amerine,

Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Sir:—

Yours of the 19th inst., to hand and contents noted and will say, that I joined the Montgomery Greys about the first of April 1861, and in May the Company went into camp at the race track near Montgomery, and was there mustered into the Confederate Service with:

S. G. Hardaway Captain.
Nat. Clanton, 1st. Lieut.
John B. McCarty, 2nd. Lieut.
George Goldthwaite, 3rd. Lieut.
John Lawler, 1st. Sergt.
Thomas Slattery, 2nd. Sergt.

The original officers I cannot call to mind, but I do not think that I ever heard of the company being called the "Irish Greys" until I was in Montgomery at the last State Reunion, when some one brought the matter up with John Maxwell in my presence, but we were mustered into service as the Montgomery Greys, and while I was with the company, Capt. Hardaway always called to us when in line, with the words, "Attention Montgomery Greys," and our Regiment letter was "Co. G. 6th Ala." We enlisted for twelve months, and at the expiration the regiment was reorganized and re-enlisted for the war, the letter of the company was changed. Capt. Hardaway resigned, also Lieut. Clanton, and the following were elected:

John D. McCarty, Captain.
Thomas Slattery, 1st. Lieut.
John Lawler, 2nd. Lieut.
James Cain, 3rd. Lieut.

At the expiration of the first twelve months service I re-enlisted, but in a Battery of Artillery, Capt. J. M. Waddell.

There are two old members of the company in Montgomery, who were in the hospital at the Surrender, but remained with them all of the war, they are John D. Maxwell and W. T. Booth, they were both living in June last, for I called to see them on my return home from the Richmond Reunion.

When I was up there last April at the Memorial Exercises, I met an old 6th Ala. man, S. Q. Hale, Co. L. 6th. Ala., called the Lochapoka Rifles, and he lives at Auburn, and is writing a book on the 6th. Ala. He gave me some parts to read that complimented the Greys as they always camped side by side, and he also spoke of Phil. Maher, the songster, but he had his name Mayo, which I corrected. But the company left Montgomery as the Montgomery Greys, under the "old flag" that hangs in the armory and I have a piece of that old flag now, and I never heard of the name "Irish" put to it, although the name might have been suggested when it was first made up in 1860, when Albert Elmore was Captain, as there were several Irishmen in it, and I am Irish myself, but I joined the Montgomery Greys, and never heard of the other name until about three years ago, but if nothing happens, I will be in Montgomery at the State Reunion then I hope to meet you. So with kindest regards, to you and Capt. Jackson, also all the boys, I remain,

Yours truly,

(Signed) R. RATHWELL.

P. S. And when we left Montgomery in 1861, we all had "M. G." painted on our hats.—R. R.

Capt. M. H. Amerine,

Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Friend & Comrade:—

I will now try and answer your letters under dates of Dec. 17th, and 24th. I will try to give you what information I can, but will say now that I was only with "Montgomery Greys" from April 1861 to Feb. 14th, 1862. I first joined Opelika Volunteers organized by Capt. Jinks Thornton, of Russell County, Ala. After organizing, the company went to Montgomery and offered their services to Gov. Moore, but from some cause was not accepted. Whereupon the company was disbanded most of them going back to Opelika. There were about thirteen of us that stayed in Montgomery, and joined the "Montgomery Greys" which was then organizing under Capt. Sam. Hardaway. I believe the commissioned officers were elected before I joined and the non-commissioned officers after I joined.

I will give you the names of the Opelika Volunteers who joined with me the "Montgomery Greys" Thaddeus N. Jones, (Jug) John Chafin, Willis Barnes, Harry Clayton, Elisha Carpenter, James Carney, Hugh Lavel, James McGinnis, Marion McDuffie, James Hilliary, Louis Steed, James Cavanaugh, F. M. Jones, and probably others who I do not remember.

And now I notice some errors in the list of names you sent me, first I notice William Jones (Jug) which should be Thaddeus N. Jones (Jug) as William was another brother of mine who belonged to 12th. Ala. instead of 6th. Ala., also William Rusk instead of Thomas Rusk. I also remember a few who are not on the list: John Chafin, Willis Barnes, George Jones and James Hilliary.

I don't know anything about the company after reorganizing only through my brother Silas who is now dead. If the letter of the company was ever changed I never knew it. I certainly appreciated the books you sent me also the names of the living comrades, as I intend to write each one of them. The reason I left "Montgomery Greys" was because several out of each company formed what was known as "Waddells Artillery of Ala." Out of "Company G" there were myself, M. W. Lord, McDuffy, Rusk, and Rathwell, and others. Opelika Volunteers afterwards reorganized under Capt. J. F. Waddell, and joined 6th. Ala. at Montgomery, known as Company "H"

I don't remember how many men there were in the company when we left for Virginia. I think your list of officers is correct. I would be glad to hear from you at any time, and anything I can help you about let me know. I always have to have some one do my writing for me, as I am getting old, and nervous, but always dictate my own letters.

Give my respects to all comrades who you may meet. Wishing you much success in your undertaking, I beg to remain,

Your friend and comrade,

F. M. JONES,

802 Main Street, Palestine, Tex.

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 15th, 1908.
Captain M. H. Amerine, President,
Montgomery Greys Retired Corps.
Montgomery, Ala.

My Dear Captain:—

It affords me great pleasure to furnish you with such information as I have relating to your inquiries.

My father Michael McDonough, and my brother John J. McDonough, joined the Montgomery Greys at the time the company was organized early in 1861. The company enlisted in the confederate service and become "Company G", 6th. Ala. Inf., and soon after the organization of the regiment, they were shipped to Virginia.

My father was killed at the battle of Seven Pines, May 31st, 1862. My brother was wounded in the knee and was a prisoner at Point Lookout, at the time of the surrender.

Just prior to the company leaving Montgomery, my brother had this deguerreotype taken in uniform, the picture is now in my possession, and the letters "M G" are still plainly visible on his hat.

I remember the original company well, and never knew or heard of them being called by any other name than Montgomery Greys. I also remember the presentation of the old flag to the company on South Court Street.

Yours truly,
T. M. McDonough,
Chief Engineer, Montgomery City Water Works.

Montgomery Greys, 1861-65.)

Montgomery, Ala., Jan. 20th, 1908.
Captain M. H. Amerine, President,
Montgomery Greys Retired Corps.
Montgomery, Ala.

My Dear Captain:—

In reply to your enquiries relative to my recollections and membership of the "Montgomery Greys, 1861-65", I beg to state that, I came to Montgomery in 1857, and have lived here continuously ever since, with exception of the time that I was in the Confederate Army, and a short time since the war that I was in Mississippi.

About the latter part of April, or early in May, 1861, Captain Sam. G. Hardaway, Nat. Clanton, John McCarty, Geo. W. Goldthwaite, and others, made up a military company, to enlist in the Confederate Army for twelve months.

We met in a Hall over the stores formerly occupied by Lehman, Durr & Co., and organized the company, and by a vote adopted the name of "Montgomery Greys." We elected Sam. G. Hardaway, Captain; Nat. Clanton, 1st Lieut.; John McCarty 2nd Lieut.; Geo. W. Goldthwaite, 3rd Lieut.; John Lawler, 1st Seargt.; Thomas Slattery, 2nd Seargt.; Al. Hutchinson, 3rd Seargt.; Pat. Doran, 4th Seargt. also Color Seargt.; John Mullins, 1st Corporal; Philip E. Maher, 2nd Corporal; James Kane, 3rd Corporal; Frank M. Jones, 4th Corporal.

In making up the company, about fifteen men came from the neighborhood of Opelika, Ala., among the number, I remember that there were, Joseph Barnes, Harry Clayton, Elisha Carpenter, James Carney, Hugh Lavel, James McGinness, Marion McDuffie, James Hilliary, Louis Steel, James Cavanaugh, Frank M. Jones, Silas Jones, Thadous N. Jones (Jug). We also had from Pike County, Jacob Kirksey John Mullins and others.

We went into camp at the old "Race Track" where the 6th Ala. Regt. was being organized. The ladies of Montgomery made a very fine silk flag, bound in gold fringe, with gold letters "Montgomery Greys" painted through the centre, one day Captain Hardaway, marched the company into the city, and down South Court Street, to the intersection of Clayton Street, there we found a large number of citizens, men, women, and children, awaiting for the presentation of the flag to the company, it was about eleven o'clock in the morning. Judge Phelan made the presentation speech, and Lieut. Geo. Goldthwaite received it, and handed the flag to Color Seargt. Pat. Doran, the company then marched back to camp, with the flag flying.

After the organization of the 6th Ala. Regt. had been completed, with Colonel Seibles Commanding, and the companies lettered, our company became "Co. G" which letter we kept until the first twelve months enlistment had expired, and upon the re-organization our letter was changed to "Co. H" I do not remember that the letter was ever changed after that time. At the time of re-enlistment several of our company left us and joined Waddells Artillery, among the number were Frank M. Jones, Mulder W. Lord, Marion McDuffie, Thomas Rusk, Richard Rathwell.

We left Montgomery with 126 officers and men, and received several recruits afterwards, but I cannot recall all of their names, but the eight survivors of the original Montgomery Greys, have made up a roll from memory, a number of names have been left off, for want of memory, so the roll is incomplete, the survivors herein hand you the roster as made up to date.

After the first year's service, Captain Hardaway, resigned, also Lieut. Clanton, Lieut. Geo. Goldthwaite, had been appointed Adjutant at the time we were first organized.

At the re-organization, or re-enlistment in Virginia in 1862 John McCarty, was elected Captain, Thomas Slattery, 1st Lieut.; John Lawler, 2nd Lieut.; Philip E. Maher, 3rd Lieut.; Captain McCarty was killed. Lieut. Slattery, was promoted to Captain, and was wounded, came home and died after the war. Lieut. Lawler, was promoted to Captain, and mortally wounded, came home and died. James Kane was promoted to Lieut. and lost one of his legs in battle. This left us with only one commissioned officer, Lieut. Philip E. Maher, he was wounded at Gettysburg, but continued through to the surrender at Appomattox.

Mike Duffie, James Healy, and Wm. Maxwell, were appointed Corporals as vacancies occurred during their long service. Duffie was wounded several times very severely, and sent home at one time, and he was not able for duty for many weeks, but when able he came back to the company. At the time he was sent home, he brought with him the old flag that had been presented to us in May, 1861. After the war was over, and the Montgomery Greys, had been re-organized, Duffie carried the flag to Capt. Winter and delivered it through him to the company again, the same old flag is now in their possession. When we left Montgomery we carried the flag as regimental colors for some months, but the government furnished the regiment with standard regulation colors, and our company flag was not used afterward.

I was wounded through both thighs at one time, at another time, I was wounded through the left thigh and left arm, at the time of the surrender, I was not able to be with the active company, but was with the ambulance train, and wagons.

The survivors of the company now living, so far as it has been possible to learn are: T. W. Booth, Seth D. Commer, Frank M. Jones, Mulder W. Lord, John D. Maxwell, Richard Rathwell, Philip E. Maher, and George Green. Three of the number after the first year's service went with "Waddells Artillery."

A man approached me a few days ago and enquired of me, what I remembered about a military company that was organized in Montgomery just prior to the war named "Irish Greys"? I told him that "I never heard of an organization by that name, that I was a member of the "Montgomery Greys" 6th Ala. Regt. during the war."

I am very glad to have had the opportunity to make the foregoing statements to the "Montgomery Greys Retired Corps" but it would take a big book to tell all that we did, hardships, service, and battles and other matters that occurred during our four years service.

I am now growing to be very old, crippled and know that my time here is short at best, and so it is with the other survivors.

Wishing each of you a long and prosperous life, and that you may never be called on to go into war, but should such fate befall you, I know that every "Montgomery Grey" will do his whole duty,

I am, Yours truly,

(Signed) T. W. BOOTH,

Captain M. H. Amerine, President,
Montgomery Greys Retired Corps.
Montgomery, Ala.

Dear Captain:—

I received your letter, with a copy of the roster of the old Montgomery Greys, 1861-65, now being made up from memory by the few survivors of the old company. I would have answered sooner but have been studying the roll, trying to bring to memory some of the names and history.

The list of officers is correct, and the men also, as far as I can remember, there are a few men mentioned on the roll that I do not remember anything about, and there are a number that should be on the roll, but I cannot recall their names.

The "Montgomery Greys" were organized in Montgomery, early in 1861, and were in the 6th Ala. Infantry, the first year it was "Co. G" then they changed it to "Co. H" and kept that letter throughout the war.

The last officers we had were Lieuts. Philip E. Maher, and James Kane, but Corporal Healy had been promoted for bravery, but was taken prisoner, and never received his commission.

On the roll I see the name of Ed. Meggs, I knew him as Eugene Meggs, that man served throughout the war, and surrendered with me at Appomattox, Va., and afterward went with me to New Orleans.

I joined the Montgomery Greys at the organization of the company, and served throughout the entire war, and never missed anything except when I was in the hospital from wounds. I was wounded seven times, had one half the bone shot out of my left arm. Our regiment was generally known as "The Bloody Sixth," Captain John B. Gordon, who commanded a company from Jackson County, named "Raccoon Roughs", was promoted from time, to time, until before the war closed he had become "Our Own" Lt. Gen'l. John B. Gordon, C. S. A.

It has been a long time since the war, and I have forgotten many names, and circumstances connected with the long ago. I am proud to see, and know that the young men keep up the name of the old company.

If there is any other information that I can give you, I will gladly do so. Wishing you a happy new year, and hoping to hear from you soon again, I am, Yours truly,

(Signed) GEORGE GREENE,
Of the old "Montgomery Greys."

Mr. M. H. Amerine.

Dear Sir:—

I received your welcome letter of the 15th. inst., and was glad to hear from you. I was wounded at the first battle of the "Wilderness" in the hand, at the "Second battle" I was wounded severely in the foot, at Spotsylvania Court House, my arm was broken. I was wounded twice in Maryland, I was wounded at Winchester.

The first man that we lost was from Opelika, he shot himself accidentally at Fairfax, before the "First Battle of Manassas" I think that his name was Jones. Joseph Barnes was from Opelika, he lost his arm at the "Battle of Seven Pines" The "Bloody Sixth" lost more men at the "Battle of Seven Pines" than any regiment ever lost during the war in one battle, killed and wounded, without losing a single prisoner. The "Greys" furnished the Color Bearers for the regiment. Mike Duffie was a "Color Bearer" Dennis Madigan was a "Color Bearer" was killed at the first "Battle of the Wilderness" Hugh Lavel was a "Color Bearer," he was wounded at Petersburg. There is another name that is not on the roll, that is a man by the name of Brown, he was killed in the "First Battle of the Wilderness" after he was killed the woods caught fire and he was burned up when the men went back to bury him, but they got his watch and sent it home to his people, ask Mr. Maxwell, he will tell you all about him, if he dont, write to Lieutenant Maher, and he will tell you all about him. When you write to Mr. Maher, please give him my kind regards, and tell him that I would be happy to meet him and shake his dear old hand. Please tell Mr. Maxwell I have lost his address and I would be glad to write to him if I had his address.

I want to tell you about an old Veteran friend of mine here in Blocton, his name is Mr. Lee Hays, he is an Alderman of our little town and he is the man that gives me employment, and I was in his house the other day showing him ail of your letters, and your book, and he said that he "would give a thous and dollars if he had belonged to the Montgomery Greys." Send my kind regards to all the old Veterans, and all the young Greys. I will remain, Your friend, (Signed) GEORGE GREEN.

The foregoing very inadequately presents the record of this gallant band of patriots, but it is sufficient to show the stuff they were made of, and it will doubtless be read with keen pleasure and interest by hundreds of their descendents.

Descriptive Sketch of the Greys Annual Ball

January 28th, 1887

From the Montgomery EVENING CAPITAL.

The decorations of Armory Hall for the annual ball of the Montgomery Greys are about complete. The committee in charge of the beautifying of the ball-room have been unremittingly engaged for the past ten days, and the result thus far achieved by them is a marvel of taste and splendor. To a CAPITAL reporter who examined their work this morning the vast apartment presented the appearance of some gorgeous transformation scene in a modern spectacular drama. Ceilings and walls, casements and doorways, cornices and wainscoting are tremulous with harmoniously blended colors, radiant with burnished armour, and resplendant with floral mottoes, deftly arranged devices and handsomely grouped pictures. The ragged surface of the roughly plastered walls flanked with two stairways which lead from the street to the armory are concealed by heavy folds of red, white and blue bunting, caught up in long loops, and the ballustrades are hidden with gay colored cloth. The entrance doors are curtained with United States flags, fastened near the floor with cords and tassels. The curtain over the door leading into the Greys room is heavy figured chintz of a rich, old gold color, and is held in folds at the centre of the sides by brackets. Above this door the words "welcome" in large gold letters on a blue ground, crescent shaped, is seen; and pendant from the concave side of the crescent is hung a handsome golden shield, with barsinister in silver, resting upon a mace and battle-ax crossed beneath it. On the shield in black Gothic letters is written the "Montgomery Greys."

The sambre gained gum racks of the several companies of the Second Alabama Regiment, ranged along the north wall, has been made cheerful in masks of white, red and blue cloth, alternated panel-wise across their faces and relieved at the tops by rows of thickly studded national flags and graceful loops of varicolored bunting.

Around the entire linear extent of the rectangle formed by the line where ceilings and wall meet depend, with short intervals of distances between, the flags of all nations. The tri-colored banner of France smiles between the double-headed eagle of Russia and the luried crescent of Turkey; the gold harp of Erin beams from its sunburst and field of green upon the British Lion and the helmeted head of St. George while the fat-checked moon of Japan sheds its blood-red glory from a pale background upon the spike-tailed dragon of the Chinese empire. Midway between the floor and ceiling, along the south wall of the armory and above the gun racks, are suspended the mottoes of the several states of the Union, each framed in a red and white barred shield, wreathed with flowers; The five immense chandeliers extending through the centre of the ball-room present pyramids of flags of all nations, crowned with a tier of United States flags. From the basis of the chandeliers, long round columns of red and white festooning stretch out like the radii of five enormous stars, intertwining and crossing each other in every direction, and caught up at the edges of the ceiling in graceful loops. The beautiful company flags of the Second Regiment, several battle-scarred banners, relics of the late war, and a number of trophy flags captured by the Old Greys on the "foughten fields" of the war, hanging down in graceful tracery from colored cords, complete the adornment of the ceiling of the ball room.

The band stand which occupies the central space against the north wall of the armory, is a triumph of the art decorative. The rough wood work is concealed by a broad band of white, fully four feet in width, drawn around the ballustrades and trimmed at the top and bottom edges with narrow breadths of red and white cloth. Raised Carthaginian shields of alternating red and white cloth, with golden stars shining between their points from the white background, complete the decoration of the lower section of the band-stand, while the upper is crowned with a heroic picture of America, represented by a glorious woman in a royal robe of stars and stripes, flanked by tiny banners, flags and festooning.

Beginning at the eastern end of the hall and extending westward along the southern side are half length portraits of the post bellum captains of the Greys: W. B. Jones, '72 to '73; John Gano Winter, '73 to '75; Thos. G. Jones, '75 to '80; Ed. A. Graham, '80 to '84; M. H. Amerine, elected captain in May, '84. Surrounding Captain Amerine's portrait are hung in gilt frames the names of the five prize winning teams he has commanded. Victors at Louisville, Mobile, Philadelphia, Savannah and Vicksburg. Underneath the Captain's portrait is suspended a photograph of the company's team taken while going through the inter-state drill at Fairmount Park, Philadelphia. The adjoining window spaces along the southern side of the hall are filled with several pictures of the company officers, and photographs of trophies won and of tent and field scenes in which the Greys participated. The most venerated and noticeable picture along the southern wall has not yet been mentioned. It is a synoptical history of the Grey's organization 1860 with a list in black letter type running through the centre of the principal battles they participated in during the war, beginning with the sunrise of victory at Manassas, and concluding with the midnight of defeat at Appomattox. This short and tragic story is surrounded by Confederate bills of various denominations and enclosed in a plain gilt frame.

To the left of the band stand, on a level with the inclosing railing, stands a life-size picture of a modern Grey, clad in the present full dress uniform of the company, with streamers beneath its feet with the peace victories won by the company inscribed on them; on the other side stands a counterfeit presentment of the old Grey of the war -a picket of the Potomac rises from the waves of color that surround him, clad in an old army overcoat, his musket held at parade rest, and from under his slouch hat his eyes peer out with sad, stern light, as if to catch sight of some lurking enemy hid in an adjoining thicket.

At the feet of the veteran is a handsome scroll containing the names of the battles in which the Greys took part during the war, and framed by his side are the lines, a tribute to the color he wore so bravely and honorably through the privations of the bivouac and the storms of the battlefield :

Something so human hearted
In a tint that ever lies,
Where a splendor has just departed,
And a glory is yet to rise.

Grey in the solemn gloaming ;
Grey in the dawning skies ;
In the old man's crown of honor ;
In the little maiden's eyes.

Grey in the grand cathedral,
Where the glorias are poured.
And with angel and archangel,
We wait the coming of the Lord.

Silvery gray for the bridal,
Sable gray for the pall ;
For youth and age, for life and death,
Ever the grey for all.

Organization of Retired Corps

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Dec. 27th, 1906.

At an impromptu meeting of a number of the old Prize Drill Team of the Montgomery Greys, held in one of the dining rooms over Young's Restaurant at 5 p. m. of the above date, there were present the following members:

Capt. M. H. Amerine	J. M. Kennedy
Maj. J. P. Saffold	J. H. McTycire
Wade Allen	T. H. Jones
Dr. John M. Anderson	Jno. Randolph
W. O. Baker	Capt. P. Sanguinetti
G. C. Dond	W. H. Wade
N. B. Holt	J. B. Hastings.

These gentlemen were hurriedly and informally gotten together through the combined efforts of Messrs. W. O. Baker, Wade Allen and T. H. Jones.

After partaking of an enjoyable, though informal, luncheon, during which many old memories were awakened and old scenes lived over again, it was decided to effect an organization, having, for its object, the perpetuation of its history, good name and comradeship of those who had served the Company as officers or members during the terms of office of Capt. W. B. Jones, Capt. John Gano Winter, Capt. Thos. G. Jones, Capt. E. A. Graham and Capt. M. H. Amerine.

With this end in view, Capt. M. H. Amerine was requested to preside as chairman and J. B. Hastings requested to act as secretary of the meeting.

On motion of Maj. R. P. Stout, duly seconded, "That we form an Association for the purpose above stated, and that the Chairman appoint a committee of five to select a name and frame a Constitution and By-laws for the Association," was unanimously and enthusiastically adopted and thus the organization was launched into existence.

In compliance with the above resolution the Chairman appointed the following comrades as members of that committee: Maj. J. P. Saffold, Chairman, Maj. R. P. Stout, Jno. Randolph, T. H. Jones, J. B. Hastings.

On motion of Maj. Stout, duly seconded, the following officers were elected:

President, Captain M. H. Amerine.

First Vice-President, Maj. J. P. Saffold.

Second Vice-President, Col. Chas. P. Jones.

Secretary-Treasurer, J. B. Hastings.

Custodian, Capt. Paul Sanguinetti.

It was the sense of the meeting that there should be no dues or fines, but that funds should be raised by a call of the Treasurer for subscriptions, and to be so provided for in the Constitution.

There being no further business the meeting adjourned to meet at the call of the President.

J. B. HASTINGS,
Secretary.
